

Spotlight on Health Grantmaking in Ohio

May 2005 / The Foundation Center–Cleveland

The Foundation Center’s mission is to strengthen the nonprofit sector by advancing knowledge about U.S. philanthropy. In this report, the Foundation Center–Cleveland shines a spotlight on health grantmaking in Ohio. We hope this look at Ohio grantmakers and recipients and those outside Ohio that support Ohio’s health programs will enable you to gain insights about the current state of health philanthropy in Ohio.

The report includes statistical charts and data tables based on the Center’s annual grants sample, a mini-directory of important health funders in Ohio, and brief comments from local leaders in the field of health.

Ohio Grants Sample

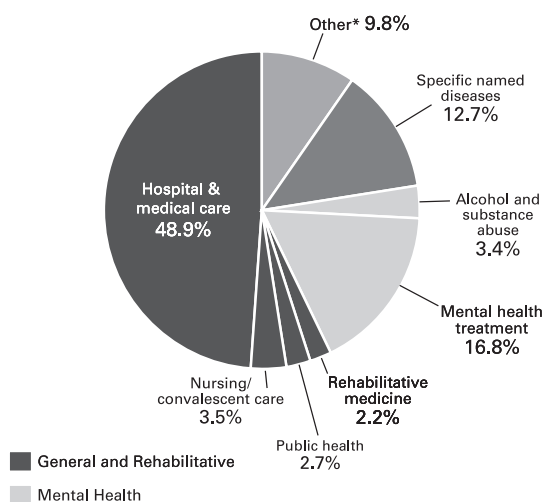

Each year the Foundation Center indexes all of the grants of $10,000 and more awarded by roughly 1,000 of the nation’s largest foundations. In our most recent (2003) sample, the grants of the 1,010 U.S. foundations surveyed amounted to $14.3 billion. Of the 1,010 foundations in the sample, 44 are based in Ohio. (For a complete list of these foundations, see our Web site.)

The two charts (right) are based on these 44 foundations’ grants to Ohio-based health recipients, amounting to $38 million. A mini-directory of selected Ohio funders focused on health (inside) is supplemented by a chart listing the top non-Ohio foundations that also provide significant health funding in the state. A list of the top 15 health-related grant recipients in Ohio from the 2003 grants sample rounds out the picture.

Spotlight on Health Grantmaking in Ohio is sponsored by:

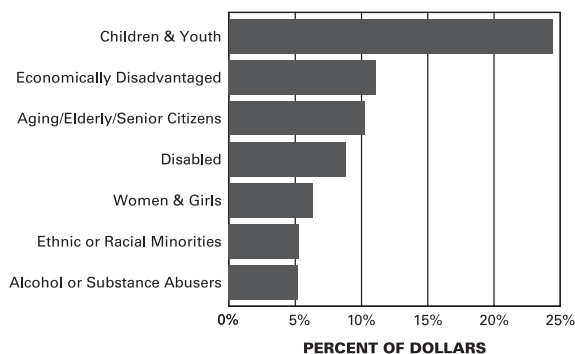

More than half of Ohio health grant dollars targeted General and Rehabilitative Health

Source: The Foundation Center’s 2003 grants sample.

*Other category represents remaining health fields that each account for less than 2% of total grant dollars.

Children and Youth benefited from largest share of Ohio health grant dollars

Source: The Foundation Center’s 2003 grants sample.

Chart includes selected beneficiary groups representing at least 5 percent of grant dollars. Figures represent only grants awarded to groups that could be identified as serving specific populations or grants whose descriptions specified a benefit for a specific population. These figures do not represent all giving benefiting these groups. In addition, grants may benefit multiple population groups, e.g., a grant for minority women, and would therefore be counted more than once.

In Their Own Words. . .

If you were able to change one thing when it comes to health care in Ohio, what would it be?

Grantmakers:

Personally, I would love to see some form of universal health care coverage for all.

—Stacey Easterling, The Cleveland Foundation

Access to health care for vulnerable populations.

—Donald E. Hoffman, The Health Foundation of Greater Cincinnati

I think we would all like to believe good health care is available to all people. . . . I'm afraid that this is not yet true.

—Karen Hooser, The Reinberger Foundation

Grant recipients:

There would be some legal protection for Medicaid recipients to ensure that their benefits would not be cut.

—Bridgid R. Slivken, Otterbein Retirement Living Communities

My wish is for quality health care to be made more accessible to the elderly, the uninsured, and women who are so busy taking care of others.

—Carol L. Moss, Cleveland Clinic Foundation

In your opinion, what are the biggest challenges for health funding in Ohio?

Grantmakers:

Possible Medicaid reductions will exacerbate the number of uninsured, which has potential to undermine the financial viability of providers, especially safety net providers.

—Donald E. Hoffman, The Health Foundation of Greater Cincinnati

Medicaid cuts and increasing costs being shifted to the states by the federal government.

—Kaki McGeary, The Anthem Health Foundation of Ohio

Grant recipients:

Big issues are the rising cost of technology and equipment, our aging facilities, and specialty hospitals/doctor-owned diagnostic centers. We also have trouble recruiting and retaining nurses.

—Kelly Fackel, Grandview Hospital Foundation

The greatest issues impacting the future provision of health care are prohibitive medical malpractice insurance costs, the rising costs of health care, and a growing "consumerism" in health care.

—Carol L. Moss, Cleveland Clinic Foundation
