

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH GRANTMAKING IN OHIO

The Foundation Center's mission is to strengthen the nonprofit sector by advancing knowledge about U.S. philanthropy. We are pleased to present this brief exploration into health grantmaking for the second consecutive year and hope that it will help you gain insights into the state of health grantmaking in Ohio.

This report includes statistical charts and tables based on the Center's annual grants sample, a mini-directory, and profiles of top grantmakers and recipients.

OHIO GRANTS SAMPLE

Each year the Foundation Center indexes all of the grants of $10,000 and more awarded by more than 1,000 of the nation's largest private and community foundations. Our most recent (2004) sample includes over 126,000 grants awarded by 1,172 U.S. foundations totaling $15.5 billion. Of the 1,172 foundations in the sample, this report analyzes health grants made to Ohio recipients by 95 foundations, 39 that are based in Ohio and 56 that are based outside Ohio, totaling $56.1 million.

PRIMARY PURPOSE

Funding for General and Rehabilitative Health—which includes support for hospitals and in-patient care, outpatient clinics and care, public health, reproductive health, and health care financing and policy, among other purposes—accounted for nearly 75% of all Ohio giving for health in 2004. General and Rehabilitative Health also experienced the fastest growth in grant dollars between 2003 and 2004.

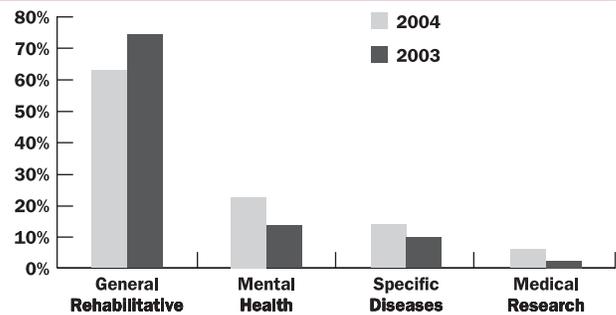

TARGET POPULATION

Among specified population groups, children and youth benefited from almost one-fifth of Ohio-focused health grant dollars. Disabled and economically disadvantaged populations followed with 14% of grant dollars each.

Chart includes selected beneficiary groups representing at least 3 percent of all grant dollars. Figures represent only grants awarded to groups that could be identified as serving specific populations or grants whose descriptions specified a benefit for a specific population. These figures do not represent all giving benefiting these groups. In addition, grants may benefit multiple population groups, e.g., a grant for minority women, and would therefore be counted more than once.

MINI-DIRECTORY OF OHIO FOUNDATIONS THAT FUND HEALTH PROGRAMS

The following private and community foundations were identified in the Foundation Center's 2004 grants sample as awarding significant numbers of health grants or health grant dollars to Ohio recipients. For most of the funders in this directory, health is just one among many areas of interest for their grantmaking. The descriptions provided here attempt to capture just their health interests, but should not be taken as an indication that they devote their grantmaking exclusively to health.

FOCUS ON CLEVELAND CLINIC AND THE COLUMBUS FOUNDATION

Cleveland Clinic

9500 Euclid Avenue
Cleveland, Ohio 44195
clevelandclinic.org

“Grant funding benefits individuals in Cleveland Clinic’s local community, throughout the nation, and around the world.”

— Carol L. Moss, Vice Chairman of Institutional Development

Cleveland Clinic is a nonprofit, multispecialty academic medical center that integrates clinical and hospital care with research and education. As one of the world’s largest health care centers, Cleveland Clinic strives to provide outstanding patient care based upon the principles of cooperation, compassion and innovation.

Founded in 1921, Cleveland Clinic has grown from a small group practice opened by four physicians to an integrated health system that includes ten hospitals, 14 family health centers, and five outpatient surgical centers. Today, Cleveland Clinic is Northeast Ohio’s largest employer.

With a stable base of revenue and support for core services, grant funding allows Cleveland Clinic to ensure its continued quality in the areas of patient care, research, and education. Philanthropic funds further its quest to understand the underlying causes of human diseases, develop new treatments and cures, educate physicians of tomorrow, and perform community outreach.

The Columbus Foundation

1234 East Broad Street
Columbus, Ohio 43205-1453
columbusfoundation.org

“Our grantmaking in health is defined by a 60-year history of supporting diverse needs and issues. Recent health grants include those for suicide prevention, therapeutic recreation, senior independence, asthma education, and access to health care. The health and wellness of our community is a top priority for The Columbus Foundation and our family of donors.”

— Lisa S. Courtice, Ph.D.,
Vice President, Community
Research and Grants Management

For every need in the community, there is at least one nonprofit organization striving to assist, address, or alleviate the problem, and through grantmaking, The Columbus Foundation is committed to helping those nonprofits succeed in their missions. Organized and operated as a collection of unique funds established by donors to support the causes they care about, The Columbus Foundation’s commitment to strengthening and improving the communities of greater Columbus has steered its work for more than 60 years.

Strategic priorities focusing on the community’s changing needs and opportunities guide the Foundation’s competitive grantmaking in several program areas. Its support for health includes promotion of wellness, health awareness, and prevention of disease, encompassing activities related to mental health, public health, school-linked health services, family planning, substance abuse, convalescent and home health care, nutrition, and child immunization.
